The Anti-Slavery Celebration.

The local Committee of Arrangements met last evening, and appointed Judge H. V. Wilson, President; Gen. Fitch, Cor. Ross, and Capt. Pierce, Executive Committee; General Fitch, Marshal; and G. A. BAKER, Corresponding Secretary. Major STANLEY has accepted the invitation as Orator in behalf of Cleveland.

The Steamer Ocean.

The steamer Ocean, Capt. Evans, will carry the round trip for $1.00, and it is expected that everybody will provide well filled baskets.

Gold in Kansas Territory.

The Kansas City of the 25th ult. announces with a flourish of big lead lines that the Pike's Peak Gold Mines have been fully opened, and the first arrival of gold dust from Kansas City. It reports the arrival of Messrs. Borden and Company, old mountaineers from Pike's Peak, for outfit, tools, &c., for working the newly discovered gold mines on Cherry Creek, a tributary of the South Platte. They brought several ounces of gold, dug by the trappers of that region, equal to the best California specimens. The Journal also states that Mr. John Cuttill, of Westport, had 3 ounces which he dug with a hatchet on Cherry Creek, and washed out with a frying pan, and Messrs. Richards, an old French trapper, several ounces dug with an axe. Kansas City was alive with excitement, and parties were preparing for the diggins. The Journal says:

Additional news from the Bent Fort gold region.

has been found, and other deposits of smaller size. So it seems that we can have places within a few weeks journey with mules or oxen, without being obliged to go to Fraser river, where there are already thousands of miners. These gold regions are directly west of this city, and a few miles south of Pike's Peak. Kansas City is the convenient place on the river for emigration en route for these newly discovered gold mines.

Great Filling Out in Emigration.

The United States appear to have lost in a measure their attractions to British subjects, and indeed to emigrants from most quarters of the Old World. In 1853, the emigrants landed in New York reached the number of 372,725—enough to make new States of the United States according to the Democratic rule of population necessary for a Slave State, and four Free States under the modern Democratic ratio. In 1857 the emigration dropped down to about 180,000; and the hard times and other causes have so checked the influx of emigrants that the full returns of the year 1858 probably will not show an aggregate emigration of over 100,000.

The official returns in England for the first three months of 1858, present the unusual fact.

that the aggregate number of emigrants from Great Britain during the first quarter was but 19,000, of whom only 8,200 were bound for the United States, against 16,736 for the corresponding period of 1857. Of the rest, 3,867 were bound for the Australian Colonies.

And Casualties in Milwaukee.

The night of the 27th ult. six persons were drowned at Milwaukee and vicinity, four of them fishermen. They left Milwaukee in small boats to visit their nets during the day, and their boats were capsized in the rough weather of the night following.

Mr. R. P. Jennings, a merchant, and Mr. J. H. Sullivan, a young lawyer, both members of boat clubs, went out in a small four oared gig, and also perished. Mr. Jennings has relatives in Rochester, N. Y.

Ashtabula County Fair.

The spirited Ashtabula County Agricultural Society will hold an Annual Fair at Jefferson, on the 7th, 8th and 9th of September. It will be one of the best of the season, and of course one of the best for the good Farmers, Dairy men, Mechanics and Housewives of old Ashtabula, who value the value of fostering home institutions, and do it. Her Cheese manufacturers are famous the country over, and bear of the premiums at State Fairs whenever Cheesedolers enter the lists.

STRANGE ELOPEMENT.—Mr. Sherwood, Secretary of the Lafayette Railroad Company, and Mr. Allen, wife of Rev. Mr. Allen, a Presbyterian Minister of Lafayette, La., recently eloped together for parts unknown. Sherwood left a wife and two children, and sent word back to his wife to dispose of the property and with her children go back to her father. Mr. Allen left on pretense of visiting friends in St. Louis. Her husband went there to meet her, and learned her unfaithfulness. Mr. A. had been settled in charge of the First Presbyterian Church in Lafayette but a short time.

APPLES IN TRENTON.—The editor of the Concord Reporter has been making a trip through some of the townships of Trenton county, and reports that the apples will be nearly half a crop.

Peter Yarnall, Esq., a brother of Lieut. Yarnall whom Com. Perry left in command of the Lawrence when he passed to the Niagara, is now living in Wheeling; and his attendance at the celebration on the Tenth would be a matter of much interest.

CINCINNATI FASHIONS.—Wednesday night a bad woman shot a bad man who had abandoned her, the ball passing through the body in the region of the heart. The man, George Devlin, is not expected to live. John Porter struck Mrs. Reed, wife of the proprietor of the Eastern Hotel, with a stove pipe, and fractured her skull. Porter was a rascal for the house, and first quarreled with Mr. R. The wound is likely to prove fatal.

CONGRESSIONAL NOMINATIONS.—The Lecompton Democrats of the 13th District have nominated Jay Patrick, of Norfolk, for Congress. John Sherman, of Mansfield, is the Republican candidate.

The Republicans of the 1st Michigan District have nominated Wm. H. Howard, and Henry Waldron in the second district. C. C. Washburn has been nominated by the Republicans of the 2d Wisconsin district.

The Doomed Man.—Albert Myers, the man sentenced to be executed to-morrow for the murder of Neville, has not yet shown the least sign of having been impressed with the hopelessness and solemnity of his condition. His temper is more irascible, petulant and violent than ever. Yesterday the Reverend Chaplain of the Penitentiary called at the prison to see if he could possibly converse with him on the subject of his approaching end, and Timothy Davis went into the cell and requested Myers to wash himself and otherwise prepare to receive the gentleman; but the prisoner, instead of complying with the request, dashed his face all over with cooled beans, and said he was then ready to see the preacher. Mr. Davis expostulated with him, but he flew into a towering rage, flung himself on the turnkey and attempted to strangle him, and it was only by the utmost exertion that Mr. Davis could shake him off. He was finally subdued, but remains sullen and angry.

The Congo Fever in Charleston.

As might have been anticipated, the landing of three hundred negroes from Africa in Charleston, has created an intense excitement among the slave-breeders, slave-drivers, and slave-dealers, to possess and put them to a profitable use. A writer in the Charleston Courier, of August 28th, urges that the negroes "are wanted everywhere—our planters want them; our mechanics want them; our railroads want them; our waste lands are in want of them"—and declares that "there is no reason why we should send them back, but in this, that it has become agreeable to another section of this Union to look with disgust on our institutions, and we are called upon to make this sacrifice of interest and humanity to propitiate them."

When these negroes were taken from the port of Charleston.

It is a curious fact, that it will be a brand upon our institutions that should fill the heart of every man that loves his country. It will be the declaration to the world that this country, in which our negroes are so numerous, is so much more ready to receive them than to give them a fair trial. It is a brand upon our institutions that should fill the heart of every man that loves his country. It will be the declaration to the world that this country, in which our negroes are so numerous, is so much more ready to receive them than to give them a fair trial.

Gov. Corwin and Gov. Chase.

The Columbus meeting in Goddard's Park was a thorough one, and Gov. Corwin made one of his inimitable speeches. The State Journal gives a sketch of the speech, and says: "It will be seen that he indorses fully the doctrines and principles advocated by the Republicans, and holds it to be the right and duty of Congress to prohibit the extension of slavery into the Territories. He spoke nearly two hours, and held the undivided attention of the large audience until he concluded."

Mr. Corwin discussed the tariff question at length.

He contended that tariff was uniformly to the advantage of labor, and would build up free labor at the North. The fight began on the tariff question. Thirty years ago was begun what was ended in the English swindle. He had seen the birth of this fellow—and he hoped to be in it at the death.

It had been predicted, and the Democracy were fairly warned in 1840: "Just so sure as you repeal the tariff of '42 you will bring about the ruin of the country."

Every year our imports increased, while our exports remained nearly the same. Our imports are of fancy articles, which may cost you a dollar, and you may have a pound of bread a day into the pockets of the Liverpool ladies, and a few more into the pockets of the London gentlemen. The Democrats are terribly alarmed at the small bank notes. Stick one under their eyes and they snort like the devil at the smell of certain burning herbs. But when the works of free trade have emptied the treasury, and the government is nearly bankrupt, treasury notes are issued.

Hammond says we of the North borrowed abolitionism from Washington and Jefferson at the South.

He says the South can rule the North, and through the North, the world. It cannot rule the world, but it can rule the North. The South can rule the North, and through the North, the world. It cannot rule the world, but it can rule the North. The South can rule the North, and through the North, the world. It cannot rule the world, but it can rule the North.

United States, except where established by State Law.

Corwin—"That's the old doctrine. I have always held that." It is the old doctrine. It is the doctrine of the Constitution as it was understood by the men who adopted it. It is the doctrine of the men who will not let the Union be divided against itself. Now, my fellow-citizens, why should any one agree in these fundamental doctrines—so important at this time—so vital to the well being of the country, to the security of the Union, and all other interests, separate in action at this crisis. I differ certainly in some comparatively unimportant matters from our honored friend, but we can agree to differ for the present. We will unite against the common antagonist now, and will talk over the matters of difference as we get time and opportunity, and see if we cannot find common ground enough to stand upon in future conflicts. I think we can.

But I find myself in danger of making a speech.

(Cries of "Go on—go on.") So. The sun is already below the horizon. I must not avail myself of your indulgence. I hope, before the canvass closes, to have some other opportunity of addressing the people of Franklin county at length upon the questions involved in this fall's campaign. Meanwhile let me congratulate you upon the indications afforded by this day's meeting, and by the address which we have just heard. This vast assemblage, composed of the most ardent Republicans who have stood by the guns from the first; but who have in part also of patriotic citizens who have doubted the propriety of union with them, who inspired by the same spirit of opposition to the wicked, pro-slavery administration which now directs the course of national affairs, gives full assurance that hereafter we are to be united, undivided by any small jealousies or subordinate questions, in the noble cause of Freedom and Free Labor, Union and Reform. With such a union, in such a cause, victory is sure.
